

Membership Application

The Canadian Heart Rhythm Society is a professional organization of Canada's heart rhythm specialist physicians, trainees and allied health professionals. The CHRS is affiliated with the Canadian Cardiovascular Society. The CHRS carries its work through:

Research and education programs in the field of cardiac electrophysiology
Professional leadership and guidance in clinical practice, including the development of:

Consensus Conferences and Position Statements
National Data Registries

The Canadian Heart Rhythm Society welcomes your interest in joining our society. Application for membership is available in the following categories:

Ordinary members - Health professionals, scientists and educators who are interested in furthering the objectives of the Society. Ordinary members are expected to be members of the Canadian cardiovascular Society (www.ccs.ca).

Trainee members – individuals currently enrolled in a recognized electrophysiology or pacemaker training program.

Associate Professional Members - individuals whose profession is directly related to cardiac electrophysiology.

Application forms for each category are available on the website: www.chrsonline.ca. Please note that applicants must be nominated by ordinary members of the CHRS.

Annual Membership Fees

Ordinary member: $200.00.

Trainee members: No fee

Associate Professional member: $25.00

Nominees for membership will be approved by the executive and confirmed at the Annual General Meeting held each October. Complete applications should be submitted by June 30 each year in order to be confirmed by the following October.